What is the CDM doing with Pakistan How and where has it worked Has it spurred any local effects To this end I will start out by giving an overview of Pakistan's current emissions and possible CDM approaches and then take a close look at all 29 registered CDM projects. I will also assess whether these projects have had an impact on Pakistan's overall emission pattern and whether some form of technology transfer has taken place. In a second major part of this essay I shall try to identify the effects that the CDM has had and if it has been able to spur local development within the government, the economy or academia and civil society. 28 pp. Englisch.
