Excerpt: . . . daring Swept with his chivalrous escort past our front, Even at the stormy edge of chafing battle. Our arrows touched him not, his life was charmed! Sudden he reined his horse up, raised his helmet, And shouting thrice aloud, waved his bare hand. A chosen troop rushed forward--then he turned His charger round, and in short circle wheeling, With a loud cry triumphantly rushed on us. MERANES. He seemed a super-human presence, fraught With an unearthly valour, demon phrensy! A fiend was surely in his heart and arm; Satanic majesty was in his eye. The war-mist rolling round him; his keen sword Flashed like hot lightning, bright and terrible--He seemed as moving in a thunder-cloud. NOHORDATES. And that black horse--an hellish birth was he too. I saw his gaping nostrils red with fire, A foam of gore he tossed from his dark jaws, In...
